EPISTLE FROM JOHN BOLIVAR. John Bolivar's last letter is a pretty cute specimen of playing upon words. Here it is: ROOM 1776, ST NICH ILAS HOTEL.

NEW YORK, Jane 1st, '58.]

Editors Boston Evening Gazette:—Unly think of it—Summer again! What a world of enjoyment is wrapped up in that little word. How pregnant with fun, love and sunshine it is! How it whispers of meadow larks, pure mirth, and morning glories, and tells wild tales of green fields, white trousers and sherry cobblers! Palpitating hearts beneath silk bodices and cherry-colored vest patterns will welcome it with open arms, for to them it seemingly places a halo of glory around the brow of Wednesday night! There's no such summer here. In New York, summer is an abortion. We lack the Common, with its cuirping squirrels, frog pends, and levely dimity.
Strange ideas of fun here, too. Got three comic papers -- Police Gazette, Coroner's Vindicator, and Doctor Dixon's Scalpel-first rate to read when you've got the jumping toothache, lost money, or are momentarily expecting a visit from the sheriff. Keep your spirits up beautifully! Since my last, I have had two or three invitations to visit well known and popular New York institutions, including Toombs, small-pox hospital, and Brown's coffin warewas sick. New Yorkers deem Boston disthe city, are first conducted by the authorities to Potter's field, dead house, lunatie asylum, and similar places of amusement, sometimes in company with three or four coroner's keeping up a lively and agreeable conversation about "stiffs." I don't like it. I'm fond of crickets, old cheese, fireworks, children, and other Boston institutions displaying signs of life. My head is full of life. I believe I wouldn't live if it wasn't for life. Well I went to the City Prison yesterday. It wasn't dressed in mourning, so I didn't visit the Toombs until afternoon. To visit the Toombs, is a grave affair for the undertaker. It's a dismal looking edifice, built of queer material. Man told me 'twas built of Toombs stone. Keepers careful whom they admit. Must generally get an endorsement from the judge that you are a thief, or such like. I got in as a reporter. Just as good. Searched me through-might be a confederate. Found comb, toothpick, three cents, and a free pass on a railroad. All right .-Member of the press. Introduced (a rare compliment extended only to the press) to the favorite murderer. Embraced him. Promised me his life for the Gazette. Introduced to the confidence man. Hugged him .--Kissed female horse-thief, and indulged in various other reportorial luxuries for an bour. In an old damp cell, saw young damsel—a sad picture, which put me in a bad state of sun or air-a curious birth for them. Here they are made to lie because they have stolen. Saw thieves of all descriptions, representing the industry of all nations. Some were there for taking photographs; others for hooking fish; and one for stealing a sewing machine, and so on. Gamblers were there in scores. One gave me his card. He was a trump .-Would never forget that spot. His character had been tray-duced. Was no better since he had been in. Plenty of drunkards there. Satisfied that people who get high are genwas once a superior judge-of Otard. But for their regulation. Complain of bad air, close and confining. That which the prisoners fear the most is the attention of the consulting Surgeon which will be consulted by the Association, a Report on Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, by the Consulting Surgeon which will be consulted by the Association of Spermatorrhea. ers fear the most is the at-mos-phere. Try to mail, (in a sealed letter envelope,) free of charge break out sometimes. (Happen to get the on receipt of two stamps for postage. small-pox, break out very easy.) Prisoners have three meals a day. Principally Indian though. On Sundays and other holidays have excellent dumplings. Taste as if they were made of gutta percha and stuffed with tape. Last a month, one of them will. Good for children to cut their teeth on. Boys in the neighborhood sometimes play ball with them -bounce beautifully. Most of the prisoners stand up and sleep. Feather-beds, even for favorites, full of writing materials, etc. This is true, for it is hard to lie on them. One was dissected in my presence, and found to contain ten quille, seventeen plucked chiekens. three geese, one feather and a straw. I got disgusted, and left, which was right. Let New Yorkers try Boston jail, if they want good ac-

I must close. Several in my room insisting on my visiting Potter's Field, New York Hospital, etc. Will have to go. "When you are in Rome," etc. "Connery Greens" just passing by hotel-band playing "Dead March:" organ grinder murdering "Poor old Slave" right under my window, and room mate is reading alone about a shocking sui-
